

Concept

My lobby installation in support of the American Alpine Club serves to reinforce themes of mountaineering in rewarding ascension with reflection.

Mount Analogue - American Alpine Club

Referencing the novel Mount Analogue, this lobby installation engages with philosophical themes of mountaineering establishing a bridge between earth and sky. Through the ascension of the space one encounters the “peradam” - an object that is revealed only to those who seek it. This compact isolated loft serves as a space for meditation, a reward for reaching the summit.

On the lower level the mountain sculpture is accompanied by a seating area suspended by ropes and a hanging library - featuring texts on mountain history and mountain culture.

The installation will be in support of the American Alpine Club advocating for American climbers and the conservation of climbing regions throughout the states.

Floor Plan- Lower Level

Floor Plan- Loft

3D
Visualization - walls removed for clarity

Finishes, Furniture & Equipment

